Changes in Minority Population Numbers and Distribution

The purpose of this report is to present data collected by the 2000 Census and illustrate changes that have occurred since 1990 in the Wichita-Sedgwick County population. This report is not all-inclusive, but gives results of the early data released by the Census Bureau. As more data is released, MAPD will prepare additional reports.

Between 1990 and 2000, Sedgwick County population grew 12.2 percent, from 403,662 to 452,869. Tables 1 and 2 show how the white and primary minority populations changed in comparison to the overall population changes for Wichita and Sedgwick County during the previous decade.

Figures 1 through 6 show the percentage distribution of the primary minority groups in 1990 and 2000 by census tract. In each case, a census tract shown in white means the minority population being shown is at or below the 1990 countywide average for that population group. Since this is the case for most all of the rural areas of the county, the maps have been modified to give a close-up of areas where the population group's percentage is above the 1990 countywide average.
